

FdA International Golf Management

If you are looking to develop your golf and your career in the golf sector, then this is the programme for you. The industry is now truly international and opportunities exist throughout the world for individuals who are passionate about golf and who are work ready. You will develop your business and management skills alongside your golf, with fantastic facilities in the UK and Spain/Portugal with golf coaching that will really get the best out of you.

The FdA International Golf Management is a two year programme of study with winter training taking place in Portugal/Spain during the second semester of each year. The taught programme runs from September until the end of March finishing in time for the start of the golf season (with a three day residential in the summer term). You can expect to work at weekends, some evenings and have independent study during the playing season. The first semester is in the UK at Lindfield Golf Club and the East Sussex National Golf Club. The second semester takes place in Portugal/Spain at Castro Marim (Portugal) and Islantilla Golf Resort (Spain).
